

Dear FCC:

The loss of educational broadcasting in Orlando will be a detriment for both now and for our future. For those of us relying on the broadcast mandate of the FCC, it will effectively kill educational broadcasting for many, even with a special antennae to attempt to receive the more distant channels in Cocoa and Daytona. In an environment of constant reduction in quality and funding of public education, it seems the timing could not be worse. I urge the FCC to not approve the change.

Robert Hudak